Introduction

The Live Art Garden Initiative's This Week books are published annually and the 2008 edition is the 3rd since the project commenced in 2006. This Week content is first published on the Initiative's website and prior to the annual production and release of the print-format books.

The curatorial brief for This Week content is for images or text-based work to be 'timely', either in relation to private or public events, or issues, of the week. It is intended that the content created by the associate artists of the Initiative and submitted in any one week is web-published therein too. Online the project can be viewed here: www.liveartgardeninitiative.org.uk/thisweek.html

Lauren Goode, artist and project director of the Initiative conceived the This Week project, both its online and print publication dimensions, and is its most frequent contributor.

Tree care?

Artist: Lauren Goode

Tree care?

A walk in the park in the coldness and dormancy of winter, but, also, and yet again, the 'tree care' team has been unnecessarily busy in the park...leaving a trail of disfigured trees in their wake (some have been removed in totality). The park looks, for the most part, strikingly ugly – few mature tree forms have escaped. Even the ground looks acutely barren as the autumn leaves were removed. Many of the paths stink of the artificially produced mulch that has been spread liberally about and, as one walks along, is rather unpleasant to breathe in.

Another winter Sunday afternoon. The sun is out and the trees sawn-off branches stand aloft starkly. It's unexpectedly mild and the park is busy, but in keeping with the brutality of the tree hacking, a domestic dog tears after a squirrel and – unusually – this time the squirrel doesn't skillfully escape. The dog's owner is shouting out loudly, but to no avail. The dog is steadfast, totally intent on the kill – it runs excitedly in circles with the squirrel dangling between its jaws. The squirrels alarming and distinctive distress calls fill the immediate vicinity and beyond, easily audible over the ordinary park soundscape, although mixing in with the screams of child's play. And then absent... I continue my walk around the park, but this brief entry-moment of horror lingers, along with the hacked trees that also accompany me.

From beneath

Artist: Lauren Goode

From beneath my raincoat and from out of my naked back – but without any wound opening – suddenly an enormous wasp appears – its size, the length of my whole spine!

It flies fast around the meeting room before evaporating into nothingness.
